Machu Picchu & the Sacred Valley

An In-Depth Journey into the Ancient Wonders of the Inca Civilization

High in the Peruvian Andes, the ruins of Machu Picchu rest amid knife-edged ridges and vertical slopes draped in emerald jungle. Hidden from Western explorers until 1911, when a Quechua guide led Yale historian Hiram Bingham to the site, the marvelous Inca city was mesmerizing, even in its dereliction. Built on a granite mountaintop close to the sun, its intricate architecture reveals the ingenuity of its 15th-century designers. Massive blocks of stone were cut to fit together so precisely that no mortar was necessary. The site also reflects the Incas' extraordinary knowledge of astronomy, with many elements aligning with heavenly events such as the solstice sunrise. Far below the ruins, the Urubamba River rushes through a green gorge into the Sacred Valley. Our journey into the mysteries of Inca civilization also includes Cusco, once the gold-laden capital of the empire, as well as modern-day cultural encounters with traditional Andean people who live in harmony with nature.

Machu Picchu & the Sacred Valley Itinerary

An In-Depth Journey into the Ancient Wonders of the Inca Civilization

Day 1: Lima, Peru

Arrive in Peru's cosmopolitan capital of Lima where you are met on arrival at the airport. Our representative will be waiting just outside baggage claim to assist you with your transfer to our hotel, conveniently located nearby for easy access to tomorrow's flight to Cusco.

Day 2: Cusco / Sacred Valley—Lamay / Urco / Huayllabamba

Fly this morning to Cusco, heart of the once-grand Inca Empire, and meet your Expedition Leader on arrival. From the Indigenous Quechua word qosq'o, Cusco means the “navel of the earth.” Set in a high Andean valley, Cusco was founded in the 12th century and thrived until Spanish conquistadors destroyed the Inca civilization in their 16th-century colonial quest. From the Cusco airport, board our new all-electric van, which will convey us around the Sacred Valley and Cusco during our trip—it's the first electric van to be used for tourism in Peru, and we're proud that our travelers are part of our pioneering sustainability initiative. Enjoy the smooth, quiet ride as we descend into the heart of the valley, following a winding route through the Andes foothills while absorbing views of farmland, village life and imposing peaks.

Over the next two days, explore the nexus of nature and culture as we meet the Andean people who have sustained traditional lifestyles here for centuries, farming in harmony with the land. Our first stop is in the small town of Lamay where we visit a local home to try chicha, the ceremonial corn beer of the Andes. Inside this humble chichería, we're welcomed into an authentic space where the brewer's hands touch maize daily and generations of wisdom are passed down in every gesture. Continue to the village bakery, where a traditional adobe oven serves not only as a kitchen but also as a communal hearth where neighbors bring stews and potatoes to slow-cook in the oven's residual heat. If the timing aligns, we may get to share a fresh bite straight from the coals.

At midday, arrive at La Base Lamay, a purposefully designed gathering place and local tourism enterprise that embodies the valley's natural heritage and cultural soul. Here, we enjoy a lunch prepared with fresh local ingredients as we learn about the agriculture, art, music and culinary culture of the valley. The cafe shop also sells locally made natural products from honey to handcrafts.

Next, we explore the rarely visited archaeological site of Urco. An ancient ceremonial ground once devoted to water rituals and sacred cosmology, this tranquil spot invites reflection on the deep spiritual bond between centuries-old Pre-Columbian civilizations and the natural world. As we walk among the terraces, water channels, carved rock and Incan caves, listen for the stories still flowing through stone and stream. Ultimately, we reach our luxurious hacienda-style hotel perched high on a hillside, backdropped by steep peaks cloaked in dense green vegetation.

Day 3: Exploring the Sacred Valley of the Incas—Maras / Hummingbird Sanctuary

More treasures of the Sacred Valley unfold today as we follow the Urubamba River past tawny hillsides dotted with traditional villages, small farms and Incan architectural ruins. The original vast empire of the Incas was connected by a network of 10,000 miles of stone roads woven through the imposing terrain of the Andes. Suspension bridges spanned rivers and aqueducts carried water from mountain streams to irrigate terraced fields of crops, vestiges of which we see on our journey today, backdropped by knife-edged peaks.

On a visit to Maras, witness pre-Incan salt flats where salt has been harvested for over a thousand years. The intricate network of shallow pools carved into the hillside glistens in the sun as mineral-rich water from subterranean streams fills the pans and eventually evaporates, leaving behind crystalline layers of fine salt. We then head to the Ensifera Hummingbird Garden where a picnic lunch awaits, plus a talk on hummingbirds by a local expert. Depending on our timing, we may also stop at the agricultural terraces in Yucay or have a chance to meet a local shepherd. Later this afternoon, there's time to relax at our hotel before dinner, drinking in views of the valley and imposing green mountains.

Day 4: Train to Aguas Calientes / Machu Picchu

This morning we board the train at Ollantaytambo for a 1-1/2-hour journey along the Urubamba River, which narrows into turbulent whitewater as we travel deeper into the mountains. At the village of Aguas Calientes, we disembark and board a bus for the short remaining drive to Machu Picchu. Little prepares one for the spectacle that awaits. As we ascend into the ruins, there's a sense of wandering through a mystical city in the sky, surrounded by green mountain ramparts that soar into the clouds. Our Expedition Leader helps interpret all we see as we explore the labyrinth of granite houses, temples, walls and cisterns. Llamas wander among terraced steps that once grew maize and potatoes for some 1,200 inhabitants. Archaeologists believe Machu Picchu may have been a royal estate and religious retreat, based on its sacred geography and astronomical orientation. Important ceremonies were conducted here, including a winter solstice rite at which a priest would "tie the sun" to a hitching post stone to prevent it from disappearing altogether.

We spend the next two nights at Inkaterra Machu Picchu Pueblo Hotel in private casitas built of stone, tile and cedar, surrounded by the thick greenery of the cloud forest. More than 300 varieties of orchids grace the grounds of this secluded luxury retreat on the river, and a network of trails on the grounds invites a serene stroll.

Day 5: Machu Picchu / Wayna Picchu

Return to Machu Picchu this morning for further exploration on a walking circuit revealing different portions of the complex from those we saw yesterday. Among the ruins, take the opportunity to ponder, in Hiram Bingham's words, the "bewildering romance" of a place that "appears to have been expressly designed by nature as a sanctuary for the oppressed." Those who wish may hike to the top of Wayna Picchu, the imposing mountain that provides the famous backdrop for the Lost City in classic photos. The Incas constructed the original trail to the top, where they built temples and farming terraces. Local myth holds that the summit of Wayna Picchu was the residence for the high priest of the ancient city. This challenging hike takes 2-3 hours and climbs approximately 1,200 feet from the base at Machu Picchu, ascending a steep face using stairs and cables for support. The hike is not recommended for guests with physical limitations or those with a fear of heights. Guests who do not wish to tackle Wayna Picchu will explore elsewhere with a local guide, visiting additional temples we didn't see earlier. Should entrance tickets for Wayna Picchu be sold out, an equally challenging hike to the top of Machu Picchu Mountain will be available.

Day 6: Garden Tour / Cusco

Early this morning, explore the lush gardens and grounds around our hotel, a haven for wildlife. The property is renowned in Peru for its commitment to preserving nature and sustainability and has long been a leader in the ecotourism space. More than 1,500 plant species are found on the premises, including three new types of orchid found here in 2023 alone. We'll see a great variety of flora and fauna on a naturalist-guided tour around the property's expansive 11 acres. Then it's time to make the return journey back to Cusco by train and our electric van. Take an introductory walk through the city with our Expedition Leader, who offers a brief orientation to Cusco's historic core, followed by free time this afternoon to browse the plazas and lanes before we reconvene for dinner. Local markets hum with activity, with traditional textiles and handicrafts for sale, while the savory aromas of street food fill the air.

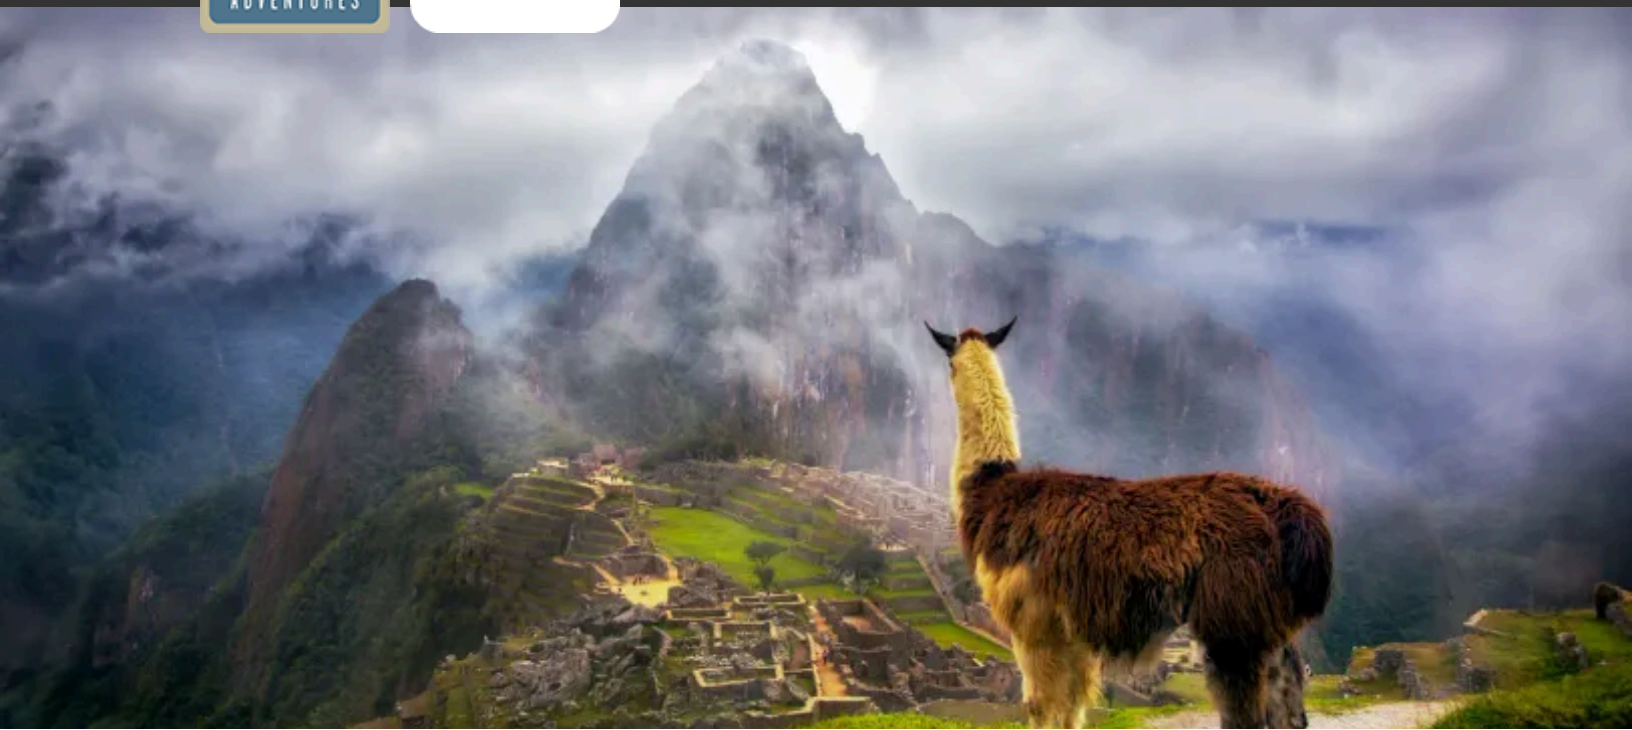

Day 7: Sacsayhuaman / Cusco City Tour / Lima / Depart

This morning, head just outside Cusco to explore the ruins at Sacsayhuaman, where we witness one of the most impressive examples of Inca walls found in the region. The site is still enveloped in mystery, and we ponder how the Incas moved these enormous stones to this site without the advantage of wheeled carts, and how they managed to fit such large, perfectly honed granite stones together so tightly that a pocketknife blade cannot be inserted between them.

We then return to Cusco for a guided immersion in its layered cultural heritage, focused on its impressive architecture set against the backdrop of the Andes. As the former capital of the Inca Empire, Cusco is the main gateway to the ruins of Machu Picchu and other important Sacred Valley sites, but it also stands alone as a trove of historic treasures. Strolling through its cobblestone streets, encounter the fusion of Incan and Spanish colonial architecture, most notably the Qorikancha Temple and the Church of Santo Domingo. Following our tour, gather for a farewell lunch before our flight to Lima late this afternoon where you will either meet your homeward flight this evening, or transfer to our airport hotel to spend the night.

Discovering Our Planet Together

An In-Depth Private Journey with Peru's Most Outstanding Guides

Machu Picchu is an architectural and civil engineering wonder. No one knows why the Incas chose to build this city in such a remote location or why it was so suddenly vacated. While we may never know the answers, on this expertly guided foray you'll experience a rare level of illumination that standard tours don't provide. Our Expedition Leader offers expert insight into the mystical ruins of Machu Picchu, plus a rich perspective on Incan culture and present-day Indigenous lifestyles, which we explore on a journey through the Sacred Valley.

Travel with a Top Expedition Leader

Most other tour companies offer either an unguided visit to Machu Picchu or they rely on local "step-on" guides who provide only scant interpretive services at the ruins. On our immersive encounter, you'll benefit from the full services of our own Expedition Leader from start to finish, plus the enhancement of a carefully vetted local guide who joins us onsite. Our award-winning guides in Peru average 15 years' experience. And their expertise in both natural and cultural history makes all the difference when it comes to a rich understanding of the sites we explore. See Expedition Leader bios and traveler comments regarding the quality of our leaders.

2

A Small Group Ensures More Meaningful Encounters

Machu Picchu offers one of the world's most captivating travel experiences. But it's also a world-renowned destination, and trying to tour the site in a big group with multitudes of tourists jostling for photos and competing to hear the guide, your visit to this World Heritage Site can lose its magic. Our groups are limited to just 12 guests, allowing for in-depth exploration and more intricate insight.

3

Luxury Accommodations in Natural Settings away from Crowds

We choose our accommodations to enhance your experience of Peru's mountain culture in peaceful settings. Near Machu Picchu we stay at Inkaterra Machu Picchu Pueblo Hotel, a luxury lodge secluded in lush cloud forest. The hotel enjoys a private setting surrounded by 12 acres of flower gardens containing more than 300 orchid species. In the Sacred Valley, we hand-pick our accommodations for atmosphere and privacy, away from crowds.

Important Information About This Trip

Our Machu Picchu adventure differs from the way most others experience this site in that we have a top Peruvian Expedition Leader at the helm from the time you arrive in Cusco to the time you depart. Traveling with a highly experienced local specialist is the only way to get the most out of the region's rich nature, culture and history in the integrated way it deserves.

At certain times of the year, two of our scheduled Galapagos trips may end on the same day and will have concurrent dates for their respective Machu Picchu extensions. Should this occur, we will combine all Natural Habitat travelers booked on the two extensions together onto one trip. This enables us to use one vehicle and Expedition Leader, thus reducing our environmental footprint.

Mandatory Insurance

Since the areas we travel to are remote and wild (that's why we go there!), we require that all guests have, at minimum, medical evacuation insurance for this program. This is for the safety of all guests. We require that your chosen independent insurance plan includes at least $250,000 in medical evacuation coverage.

To protect your investment and to provide peace of mind while you travel, we also strongly recommend purchasing comprehensive travel insurance. Plans may cover everything from medical treatment to trip cancellations and delays and lost luggage. Please contact our office if you would like more information about the medical evacuation and comprehensive travel insurance policies we offer by calling 800-543-8917.
