Wild & Ancient Himalaya: Nepal & Bhutan

Exploring Nature & Culture in Two Historic Mountain Kingdoms

Geographically diverse Nepal holds the world's highest mountains and lowland jungle plains. Safaris in the Terai reveal its captivating wildlife as we search for rhinos, sloth bears and leopards roaming the subtropical forests. In neighboring Bhutan, quality of life is measured in terms of Gross National Happiness, not merely material measures. Though Bhutan is a tiny country, it is a global conservation leader, proud to be not only carbon-neutral, but carbon-negative. The "Land of the Thunder Dragon" remains dedicated to preserving its deep Buddhist traditions and pristine landscapes. Visitor presence is still light, and a journey among its serene monasteries, Himalayan peaks, glacial rivers and peaceable villages reveals Bhutan's singular beauty. Combine an adventure in these two ancient kingdoms for a nature sojourn that will move your spirit.

Trip Highlights

On this insider's discovery of two neighboring countries, find a distinctive focus on nature, scenery, wildlife and varied ecosystems, from tropical lowlands to subalpine heights

Explore the UNESCO World Heritage Site of Chitwan, home to Asian elephants, one-horned rhinoceros, sloth bear, spotted deer, golden jackal, profuse birdlife and more

Visit the temples of the Kathmandu Valley, and hike to Taktsang Monastery, Bhutan's famous "Tiger's Nest" temple perched half a mile up on a sheer mountain cliff

Wild & Ancient Himalaya: Nepal & Bhutan Itineraries

Exploring Nature & Culture in Two Historic Mountain Kingdoms

Through April 2026—12 Days

Our 12-day itinerary includes one additional day in Thimphu, Bhutan. The remainder of the trip has the same inclusions as our new itinerary debuting in 2026/27, with the exception of Jigme Dorji National Park in Bhutan.

Starting in November 2026—11 Days

Our new 11-day itinerary has one less day in Thimphu, Bhutan, while adding a visit to Jigme Dorji National Park for scenic forest hikes, bird photography and wildlife scouting in the Punakha region. All other elements are the same.

Exploring Nature & Culture in Two Historic Mountain Kingdoms

Day 1: Kathmandu, Nepal

Arrive in Kathmandu, the storied capital of Nepal. For centuries, this city backdropped by the world's highest mountain range has been a center of religious art and architecture in both Hindu and Buddhist traditions, renowned for its intricate temples and public squares. Our representative picks you up at the airport—likely in our electric vehicle, which we use for the majority of our Kathmandu transfers—and accompanies you to our hotel. Settle in at Dwarika's, a luxurious heritage lodge that evokes the palaces of Nepal's Newar kings, appointed with artifacts dating back to the 14th century. This evening, gather with our Expedition Leader for a welcome dinner at our hotel.

Day 2: Fly to Bharatpur / Chitwan National Park

Return to the airport this morning to board our flight to Bharatpur on the Terai plains of southern Nepal. On arrival, transfer to our luxury ecolodge, Meghauli Serai, for the next three nights. This serene safari base on the edge of the Rapti River offers immediate access to Chitwan National Park. Located in the largest area of undisturbed subtropical wilderness along the base of the Himalaya, the lodge is optimally situated for the best wildlife viewing in the Chitwan region, which we take full advantage of during our stay. The area around the lodge has a consistently high sighting rate for one-horned rhinoceros, crocodile and gharial, and other species abound, too.

Days 3 & 4: On Safari in Chitwan National Park

Chitwan National Park, established in 1973, is Nepal's first national park and was named a World Heritage Site by UNESCO in 1984. It encompasses 360 square miles of subtropical lowlands and is home to about 50 mammal species and more than 500 species of birds. We spend our days exploring the park on 4x4 safari drives, anticipating views of Chitwan's most famous wild residents. While sightings are never guaranteed, we have good chances to observe one-horned rhinoceros, Asian elephant, crocodile, leopard, sloth bear, sambar deer, wild boar, monkeys and jungle fowl, all in their natural habitat. River safaris are also an option. Conditions permitting, a chance to track tigers is a special highlight, as we join our Expedition Leader and a local guide to search for footprints and pugmarks that mark the tigers' hidden presence in the park.

Day 5: Bharatpur / Kathmandu—Patan Durbar Square

Return to Bharatpur airport this morning for our flight back to Kathmandu. This afternoon, visit Patan Durbar Square, one of seven designated cultural sites in the Kathmandu Valley that have earned the region UNESCO World Heritage status. Patan lies a few miles outside Kathmandu and is home to the valley's finest artisans who have preserved ancient techniques used in exquisite sculptures and carvings. The city retains much of its historic charm with its narrow streets, brick houses and multitude of well-preserved Hindu temples, Buddhist monasteries and monuments. As in Kathmandu, Hinduism and Buddhism have co-existed here for centuries, and the cultural and religious harmony is evident. At the city's heart lies Patan Durbar Square, where the kings of Patan resided. On a guided tour, wander among the melange of palace buildings, artistic courtyards, graceful pagoda temples and shrines—a display of Newari architecture that reached its pinnacle during the reign of the Malla kings in the 17th and 18th centuries. Continue to our hotel in Kathmandu to spend the night.

Discovering Our Planet Together

Day 6: Fly to Paro, Bhutan / Thimphu

Fly this morning to the “Land of the Thunder Dragon”—the tiny Himalayan kingdom of Bhutan. If the skies are clear on our flight to Paro, we hope to see the planet’s highest peaks in a serrated white spine, setting a striking backdrop as we approach the green trough of the Paro Valley. Rich in culture, lush in scenic beauty and steeped in history and legend, Paro offers a bucolic welcome to the kingdom. From Paro we drive to Thimphu, Bhutan’s idyllic capital and a stronghold of traditional Bhutanese art, architecture and culture. Surrounded by mountains and monasteries, this seat of government and commerce on the Wang Chuu River is a harmonious mix of modern development and ancient traditions. It’s also the only national capital without traffic lights.

As we arrive in Thimphu, we visit the Iron Bridge of Tachogang Lhakhang, built 600 years ago by legendary bridge builder Thangtong Gyalpo. This renowned engineer is believed to have pioneered the use of heavy iron chains in suspension bridge construction, which influenced building methods in Europe and Asia. After lunch, tour a handmade paper factory and then head outside town to hike through a serene forest to a temple complex on the edge of a ridge. The trail winds through pine, oak, and rhododendron forests and offers panoramic views of Thimpu Dzong and Thimpu town. This evening, experience the vibrant sights, sounds and aromas of the two-story Kaja Throm, Thimphu’s Centenary Farmers’ Market, where hanging lights illuminate heaps of chiles, herbs and handmade wares.

Day 7: Exploring Thimphu

Our encounter with the heritage of Thimphu begins with a visit to the capital’s new Buddha statue, one of the tallest in the world at 170 feet. We visit early in the morning, viewing the towering statue in soft, golden light with fewer other travelers present. The structure houses more than 100,000 smaller Buddha statues inside, each made of bronze and gilded in gold like the larger icon. From the Buddha Dordenma, you will hike through blue pine forests—surrounded by magnificent views of the valley and mountains. The trail is often used by His Majesty the fourth king for mountain biking. After lunch, visit the local WWF office for a guided tour of the organization’s Panda Explore learning and exhibition center. A visit to a traditional art school reveals students at work painting thangkas (Buddhist scrolls), carving intricate wood patterns, weaving or sculpting clay figures. Wrap up the day learning more about Bhutan’s Gross National Happiness (GNH), a philosophy that values well-being, culture, community and the environment.

Discovering Our Planet Together

Day 8: Dochula Pass / Lamperi Royal Botanical Park / Punakha Dzong

En route to Punakha, cross Dochula Pass, a 10,301-foot saddle marked by 108 chortens, fluttering prayer flags and a panorama of the entire eastern Himalaya. If weather allows, we'll walk about three miles to Lamperi Botanical Park, descending through a lush forest of rhododendron, birch and oak. Opened in 2008, this is the first botanical garden in Bhutan, encompassing 125 acres of lush forest, a lake, and walking paths that lead to striking mountain viewpoints. Birdwatching is excellent year-round, while a highlight on spring departures is the park's 46 species of rhododendron, including 18 native species. They thrive in the Himalayas, blooming in a profuse show in mid-spring. We may also see musk deer roaming the misty woods.

Punakha, our destination, is the former capital of Bhutan and the winter residence of the monastic body. After lunch at a traditional local restaurant, set off for a short hike to Chimi Lhakhang Temple, a small shrine dedicated to one of Bhutan's favorite saints, the 15th-century Lama Drukpa Kunley. A rag-clad monk who used humor, songs and outrageous behavior to dramatize his teachings, he became known as the "Divine Madman" and is still beloved as such today. The peace of the Bhutanese landscape is palpable as our path to the temple ambles through green pastures and rice paddies, passing farmers and livestock in the terraced fields.

Later this afternoon, explore the massive Punakha Dzong, known as the "Palace of Great Happiness." Straddling the confluence of the Po (Father) and Mo (Mother) rivers, the monastery is Bhutan's best-known fortress. Built in 1637, it was the seat of government until 1955 and home to Bhutan's religious establishment. The palace occupies one of the most scenic dzong sites in Bhutan; maroon-robed monks and guests must cross a wooden footbridge over the river to reach it.

Day 9: Punakha Valley—Temple Hike / Nunnery—Blessing Ceremony

This morning we visit Khamsun Yuelley Namgyal Chorten, a three-story lhakhang dedicated to the well-being of the kingdom, its people and all sentient beings. Built atop a high ridge, the temple offers magnificent views of the Punakha Valley. After a picnic lunch, visit the structure of Sangchen Dorji Lhuendrup Lhakhang, a grand temple set on a ridge among pine trees with an impressive collection of statues, permanent school of higher learning and meditation center for nuns. In addition to religious training, the center holds classes on vocations like tailoring, embroidery, statue making and thangka painting. Join the nuns to learn about their lives and conclude the visit with a Tshewang (blessing) ceremony and lighting of butter lamps that we help assemble, learning about the spiritual significance of the light offering.

Discovering Our Planet Together

Day 10: Lamperi Royal Botanical Park / Paro Valley—Archery Lesson

A half-day drive returns us to Paro, with another stop on top of Dochula Pass to admire the view and wander the Royal Botanical Gardens looking for abundant birdlife. Continue to the Paro Valley in the mountainous northwest of Bhutan, a region rich in natural beauty and culture and abounding with myths and legends. Enjoy a relaxed midday meal in a serene setting overlooking the valley while learning about the conservation of the black-necked Crane, a revered bird in Bhutanese culture and a symbol of the country's dedication to protecting its fragile Himalayan ecosystems.

This afternoon, participate in a sand mandala art experience, a meditative practice that reflects the beauty and impermanence of life. Next, we visit a local farmhouse where we participate in a traditional archery lesson. Archery is the national sport of the kingdom, and tournaments and competitions are held throughout the country, often during public holidays and local festivals called tsechu. Though archery historically is a martial art, it is practiced by the peace-loving Bhutanese for physical exercise and to hone concentration.

Day 11: Paro—Tiger's Nest Monastery

Our final morning in Bhutan holds a most impressive sight: Taktsang Monastery, also known as the "Tiger's Nest." The famous subject of many photographs, this complex of 17th-century temples clings to the side of a precipitous cliff nearly 3,000 feet above the valley floor. Its name is derived from myth, which holds that Guru Rinpoche, the tantric mystic who brought Buddhism from India to Bhutan in the 8th century, landed here on the back of a flying tigress and stayed to meditate in a cave for three months. Gain an initial vista as we hike to a viewpoint opposite the monastery, while those who choose to tackle the entire challenging journey will have their effort well rewarded with unsurpassed views of the temples, surrounding peaks and valley below. Afterward, there may be time to do some last-minute shopping before saying farewell to this most captivating country.

Day 12: Paro / Bangkok, Thailand / Depart

Our Himalayan sojourn concludes as we depart from the Paro airport on a group flight to Bangkok, where we connect with onward flights.

On a visit to WWF-Bhutan’s national office and Panda Explore Visitor Center, learn about WWF’s important role in promoting conservation and sustainability in tandem with the Royal Government of Bhutan since 1977. Gain insight into why Bhutan is widely known as a conservation leader on the world stage, including its role in protecting 10 flagship species identified by WWF as holding special ecological significance—among them are the red panda, Bengal tiger, snow leopard and black-necked crane.

Later this afternoon, head outside town to hike through a serene forest to a temple complex on the edge of a high ridge. The trail winds through oak, blue pine and rhododendron forests to reach the historic Wangditse Monastery, built in 1715, with panoramic views of the Thimphu Valley and Thimphu Dzong. Once we return to our hotel, there’s time for a break before an enlightening talk by a local scholar on Gross National Happiness, Bhutan’s unique government benchmark for the well-being of its citizenry, a philosophy that values culture, community, health and the environment.

Discovering Our Planet Together

Day 7: Dochula Pass / Lamperi Royal Botanical Park / Punakha Dzong

En route to Punakha this morning, cross Dochula Pass, a 10,301-foot saddle marked by 108 chortens, fluttering prayer flags in primary colors, and a panorama of the entire eastern Himalaya. If weather permits, we'll walk about 3 miles from the summit to reach Lamperi Royal Botanical Park, descending a gentle trail through a forest of oak, rhododendron and hemlock. Opened in 2008, this is the first botanical garden in Bhutan, encompassing 125 acres of lush trees, a lake and walking paths that lead to striking mountain views. Birdwatching opportunities are plentiful year-round, while spring departures offer showy rhododendron blooms—the gardens hold 46 species, 18 of which are native to the park. We may also see musk deer roaming the misty woods.

Descend to Punakha, the former capital of Bhutan and the winter residence of the monastic body. Lunch is served at our intimate luxury hotel, the Punakha River Lodge. Set beside the Mo Chu River and framed by forested hills and distant Himalaya views, the lodge offers a tranquil retreat. After lunch, set off for a short hike to Chimi Lhakhang Temple, a small shrine dedicated to one of Bhutan's favorite saints, the 15th-century Lama Drukpa Kunley. A rag-clad monk who used humor, songs and outrageous behavior to dramatize his teachings, he became known as the "Divine Madman" and is still beloved as such today. Built atop a high ridge, the temple offers magnificent views of the Punakha Valley. Continue to Jigme Dorji National Park for a picnic lunch. The second largest protected area in Bhutan, the park spans 1,666 square miles and three climate zones, ranging in elevation from 4,600–23,000 feet. Accompanied by a local naturalist/conservationist, we spend a half-day exploring the rich biodiversity of the park. Enjoy birdwatching along scenic forest trails where we may spot the Himalayan monal, blood pheasant and satyr tragopan, among a multitude of species. After an exhilarating afternoon, it's time to return to our riverside lodge for dinner.

Day 9: Lamperi Birdwatching / Paro Valley—Sand Mandala Creation / Archery Lesson

A half-day drive returns us to Paro, with stops en route. Retracing our drive over stunning Dochula Pass, we stop at the summit for another foray into Lamperi Royal Botanic Park for birdwatching in the temperate forest filled with oak, birch and magnolia. Continue to the Paro Valley in the mountainous northwest of Bhutan, a region rich in natural beauty and culture and abounding with myths and legends. Over lunch at a restaurant overlooking the valley, learn about conservation of the black-necked crane, a revered bird in Bhutanese culture and a symbol of the country's dedication to protecting its fragile Himalayan ecosystems.

Discovering Our Planet Together

A Two-Country Combo with A Unique Itinerary

Most trips to the Himalayas tend to be somewhat singularly focused: you'll spend most of your time exploring museums and monasteries, or you'll sign on for a taxing trek between high-altitude camps. What about an alternative for the traveler who's fascinated by both nature and culture, who values a genuine immersion in nature but also appreciates creature comforts? We think we have created your ideal adventure:

1 A Unique Nature-Intensive Focus

Our itinerary combines highlights of two countries and offers an unusual combination of nature and culture rarely presented together. We search for native wildlife, such as Asian elephant and rhinos, in Nepal and cross alpine passes in Bhutan—and we also experience each country's Buddhist and Hindu heritage expressed in rich architectural and religious sites.

2 Spend Three Days Tracking Wildlife in the Jungles of Nepal

Nepal is known for its Himalayan heights, but its lowlands—called the Terai—are where its most abundant wildlife resides. We stay at a secluded luxury ecolodge near Chitwan National Park, Nepal's premier wildlife reserve, and the lodge boasts high sightings of one-horned rhinoceros, crocodile and gharial. We may also see wild Asian elephant, leopard, sloth bear, wild boar, crocodile, sambar deer and monkeys—and, if we're extremely lucky, the elusive Bengal tiger.

3 A Diverse Itinerary Filled with Varied Activities

This unusual trip includes an engaging mix of activities: wildlife drives, guided nature walks and canoe rides, plus cultural experiences in Kathmandu and Bhutan. Bhutan is known for its dramatic landscapes and serene Buddhist culture, and we'll have ample opportunity to experience both as we visit temples adorned with fluttering prayer flags and its architecturally unique dzongs (massive fortified monasteries). If you're the kind of traveler who finds everything interesting, this trip is for you!

4 Enjoy Outstanding Birdwatching

In addition to the varied mammals we may spot, Chitwan abounds in bird species—more than 500 are found in the vicinity of our lodge—and we're sure to see plenty in Bhutan as well. Even casual birdwatchers will enjoy the avian elements of our adventure. Bring your binoculars!

5 Take Part in Bhutanese Cultural Activities

Beyond Bhutan's stunning scenery, daily rituals provide a window into Bhutanese life. Try your hand at making butter lamps, participate in a blessing ceremony, arrange grains of sand into intricate mandalas and join other practices that continue to define the country's cultural identity.

Discovering Our Planet Together

6 A Small Group for More Meaningful Experiences

Because we know that both wildlife and cultural encounters are best enjoyed in intimate settings, we travel with no more than 12 guests—ensuring quiet moments with wildlife and personal interaction with the people we will meet.

7 Travel with Outstanding Guides

At Nat Hab, we've developed a global reputation for the world's best guides, because we know guides are the key to making a good trip truly great. In Bhutan, our own Expedition Leader is paired with an outstanding local Bhutanese guide, ensuring the ideal complement of trip management expertise, attentive personal service and insider insight. And in Nepal's Chitwan National Park, we are joined by expert local naturalists from our jungle lodge who are highly adept wildlife spotters. Our highly trained Expedition Leader oversees your trip from start to finish, while our knowledgeable local guides add in-depth understanding of local culture and wildlife. Our Expedition Leaders average 15 years of guiding experience—read our Expedition Leader bios and traveler comments regarding the quality of our leaders.

8 Our Quality-Value Guarantee Ensures Your Outstanding Himalayan Adventure

With Natural Habitat Adventures, you receive our exclusive guarantee, which clearly states that we will meet the high expectations we set forth in our promotional materials. To our knowledge, this is the most ambitious guarantee made by any adventure travel company.

9 Feel Good About Your Carbon-Neutral Journey

We care deeply about our planet, as we know you do. When you travel with us, the carbon emissions from your trip are 100% offset—including your round-trip flights from home. Natural Habitat Adventures has been the world's first carbon-neutral travel company since 2007.

10 Natural Habitat Adventures is WWF's Travel Partner

Because of our commitment to environmentally friendly travel, as well as the exceptional quality of our small-group nature adventures, World Wildlife Fund, the world's leading environmental conservation organization, has named Natural Habitat Adventures its worldwide travel partner—a designation that makes us exceedingly proud!

Important Information About This Trip

Most of our guests travel to Nepal for encounters with the country's wildlife. While nature experiences in this part of the world are indeed remarkable, there is a fundamental difference between a safari in the Nepal jungle and a typical African safari. At times, guests lured to Nepal by tourist brochures promising "wildlife safaris" can be disappointed to see fewer animals than they expected, or at least fewer than they might normally see in Africa. It is not that Nepal's surviving jungle habitat is thinly populated with wildlife, but, similarly to places like Costa Rica where the forest vegetation is very dense, and here, the elephant grass is also very tall, animals have mastered the art of camouflage and can be difficult to spot. That said, we have carefully designed our itineraries to capitalize on the best conditions to spot wildlife. But various factors can affect potential sightings, including inclement weather, which creates small pockets of water that allow the animals to remain hidden in the forest, rather than being forced into the open to frequent waterholes. The secret to a successful nature adventure lies with the expertise of our Expedition Leaders and park rangers, as well as your knowing what to expect as a traveler, and in understanding that the privilege of stepping into a wild and untouched natural realm is a reward in itself.

A note about departure dates: Nat Hab cannot finalize confirmed dates for any given Nepal & Bhutan departure until the airlines publish their schedule for our internal flights on tour in the unlikely event that their schedule may force us to shift our itinerary dates. The airlines typically release this information in June of each year. Please do not book your international flights until departure dates have been confirmed by Nat Hab.

Mandatory Insurance

Since the areas we travel to on this trip are remote and wild (that's why we go there!), we require medical evacuation insurance for our guests' safety. If you decline the medical evacuation insurance coverage offered by Natural Habitat, we request that you send us documentation of the independent coverage you have selected. We will add the cost of a medical evacuation policy to your tour invoice until you provide our office with proof of coverage including your insurance company's name, contact number and your individual policy number. Thank you for understanding that our policy exists exclusively in the interest of our guests' safety.

Getting There & Getting Home

This trip begins in Kathmandu, Nepal, and ends in Bangkok, Thailand. Because this is a long international journey with multiple flight segments and a significant time difference, we recommend that you arrive the night before Day 1 to rest from your travels and begin the trip refreshed. For guests who come in early, our recommended hotel will be included in your pre-departure materials.

If you plan to arrive on Day 1, you should arrive in Kathmandu by 3 pm in order to participate in an orientation and group welcome dinner beginning at 6:00 pm.

Recommended departure times vary depending on the final flight schedule from Paro to Bangkok, which is often released closer to travel dates. These times can differ even within the same season. Please refer to your Nat Hab guest portal for the exact "depart after" time based on your confirmed Paro-Bangkok flight. In all cases, we recommend staying an extra night in Bangkok to accommodate possible flight delays.

Our Natural Habitat Adventures Travel Desk can best assist with your travel reservations, as our staff is familiar with the specific requirements of this program and can help arrange the most efficient itinerary. Please call us at 800-543-8917. While we offer the best available rates to us on airfare and additional nights' accommodations, you may occasionally find special web rates or lower fares online.
